FIRST REPLACEMENT HOME DELIVERED

Modular home builder, Jandel Homes, has delivered the first replacement home to Beacon Hill in Fort McMurray after the devastating forest fires in May.

Acheson, Alberta (October 6, 2016) - Jandel Homes is pleased to announce that their first replacement home has arrived onsite in the Beacon Hill subdivision this week. The RTM (ready to move) house is 2,280 square feet and is affixed to a piling foundation.

"What some people don't know is that by using state of the art technology and production efficiencies, factory built homes offer dramatically reduced construction time over traditional building onsite, which in turn means you can take possession of your new home in as little as two to four months", says Rolf Williamson, Operations Manager with Jandel Homes. "For this particular family, we were further able to speed up construction timelines because they selected a piling foundation, rather than a basement, which literally saved weeks of time on the rebuild."

Jandel Homes offers home models that are fully self-contained, which means that most of their modular and RTM homes can be easily affixed to either a traditional basement foundation, pilings or a crawlspace.

"We had families from Fort McMurray coming into our Sales Centre while much of the City was still evacuating. Their resiliency during such a traumatic life experience has been truly inspiring. Going through this journey with these families has been humbling", says Dan Hill, Director of Sales with Jandel Homes. "These families have chosen to trust us with their rebuilds and we're pleased to be such an integral part of them moving forward".

Once a house makes the journey from the manufacturing facility to the home site, it gets placed onto its foundation and then the onsite work commences. Contractors will spend a few weeks connecting the services and doing a few touch ups. Jandel Homes is expecting that the homeowners will be taking possession in early November.
